

ARCTOS welcomes Brock Gaston as Senior Director of Business Development

TAMPA, FL—ARCTOS is pleased to announce the hiring of Brock Gaston in the role of Senior Director of Business Development for Mission Solutions, with a focus on federal contracting opportunities within technical, programmatic, training/mentorship and aviation aftermarket services.

Gaston provides 34 years of experience leading multi-million dollar programs across civilian, military and corporate environments. His tenure includes 25 years of program management for aircraft maintenance, training, safety, logistics, schools and DoD exercises. In that role, he has held sole oversight of all budgetary, resource and change management.

Gaston is also highly regarded for his accomplishments in teaching, coaching and mentoring associates and employees to develop cohesive teams in support of outlined organizational goals and objectives.

While in uniform, Gaston successfully commanded Army Aviation Units at Brigade, Battalion and Company levels. He is a four-time recipient of the U.S. Army Aircraft and Unit Readiness Award (1998, 1999, 2000, 2002), as well as the Industry Readiness Award supporting the VIP Helicopter Program for His Royal Highness, The Emir of Kuwait.

“As ARCTOS expands and diversifies our Mission Solutions business, we are thrilled to add Brock to our Business Development team as a distinguished leader within both the military and private defense spaces,” said Lorise Lovato, ARCTOS Vice President of Business Development. “His established and award-winning success in program management will be a key asset in carrying out our aggressive growth strategies.”

At ARCTOS, Gaston will build upon his extensive military and industry experience to establish a strong company presence in the Huntsville/Redstone and international markets.
